

BRAND GUIDELINES

JULY 2025

Primary Logo

This is the primary representation of the Catalyst brand and should be used whenever possible to ensure consistency and recognition. The design embodies the essence of a catalyst: a spark that accelerates transformation, bringing clarity and momentum without dominating the process. Its modern, minimal aesthetic reflects our commitment to simplicity, innovation, and human-centered technology.

The primary logo works best in full-color applications, especially in digital spaces where the gradient effect reinforces energy and progress. It should be the go-to choice for high-visibility placements such as websites, social media profiles, presentations, and branded merchandise. Always use this version when maximum brand impact and recognition are required.

When gradient printing or display isn't feasible, a monochromatic version of the logo is available. This ensures brand consistency across all mediums while maintaining strong visual impact.

Secondary Logo

The secondary logo offers a flexible alternative to the primary mark while maintaining the integrity of the Catalyst brand. Designed for use in vertical or constrained layouts, this version preserves the bold, modern aesthetic and dynamic energy that define our identity.

This logo is ideal for applications where space is limited or where a stacked format enhances visual balance. Such as social media profile pictures, mobile screens, or printed materials with narrow dimensions. It ensures legibility and impact across a wide range of placements without compromising the brand's essence.

A monochromatic version of the secondary logo is also provided for situations where gradient reproduction isn't possible, ensuring clarity and brand consistency across all use cases.

Urbane Light – Suitable for:

Colour Palette

The chosen hues balance energy and professionalism, pairing bold, tech-forward tones with soft, approachable accents. Together, they create a dynamic visual system that conveys momentum, clarity, and transformation.

In addition to using these colors individually, gradients blending these tones are a core element of the visual identity. Gradients can be applied thoughtfully to backgrounds, iconography, and key visuals to express the idea of energy in motion and seamless transformation.

Imagery

Our image direction reflects innovation, clarity and empowerment, showcasing people as the driving force behind progress.

We work with three primary styles of imagery, each serving a different communication need:

Tech-Driven Human Moments
Photos should highlight individuals engaging with technology, using laptops, headsets or digital tools, within immersive environments. Lighting should incorporate brand colors. These images are ideal for social media, digital ads and training materials.

Professional and Natural Portraits
Used in more corporate or B2B-facing materials, these images feature professionals in authentic workspaces with soft, natural lighting. Subjects should appear relaxed and confident, representing Catalyst's people-first values and trustworthy tone.

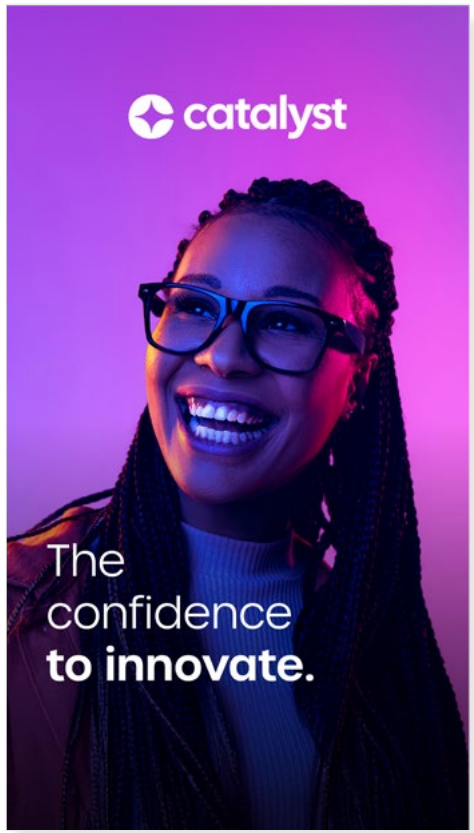

Abstract Tech Backgrounds
Dynamic, abstract backgrounds with digital textures, gradient flows and data-inspired patterns are also part of our visual toolkit. These can be used in brand headers, presentation slides, social templates or marketing banners to add energy and reinforce our connection to the tech space. Preferred palettes include brand gradients and cool, futuristic hues.
